Birds in the Backyard

Birds bring many benefits to the backyard, they add to our enjoyment of the garden, manage pests and ultimately improve the health of your plants. This workshop will look at simple steps residents can take to attract birds to the garden. Find out what to plant to increase the number of native birds and learn about the importance of biodiversity in the garden.

Date: Wednesday 25th July 2012

Time: 5.00 pm - 7.00 pm

Venue: Canterbury City Community Centre
130 Railway Pde, Lakemba (map over page)

Presenter: Sue Stevens

Sue Stevens is a Sydney-based ecologist who has special interests in bird-vegetation relationships in urban areas and in community biodiversity education.

What to Bring: A photo or drawing of your Backyard to work from. This is a practical workshop.

This workshop is a partnership between Canterbury City Council and Canterbury City Community Centre.

It is Free of charge. Sorry no childminding.
